

Living or dead water, health or disease?

The fact that water is a synonym of life is supported by another fact that when scientists search for the existence of life on other planets, they first try to find water. The power of water has been known from the ancient times. Water is used for baptizing. Also, water is converted into a healing potion. Modern science has also placed its greatest emphasis on the study of the properties of this "liquid crystal". Since it has a crystal structure and hence it has the ability to remember. There are well-known studies of water crystals undertaken by the Japanese scientist Masaru Emoto. He played different kinds of music to water, giving it nice or bad words, or preying to water, and water crystals were becoming beautiful or ugly, as you can see in the pictures. Water memory effect is known in homeopathy where this feature is used for "imprinting" of therapeutic properties and making the healing potions.

The majority of the population drinks mainly safe water in terms of toxicology and bacteriology but no Water authority makes tests of its physiological safety, i.e. its "vitality". However, it is known that water is kept in Renney collector wells and pools before it reaches the consumers. The longer it stays there, the more molecules are merged into macromolecules that at one moment become so large that they cannot pass through the cell membrane and cannot perform its physiological task - to dissolve and "remove" waste materials. The excess of unremoved water causes many consequences. It strains the heart, causes high blood pressure and forms the basis for the emergence of sand and stones in the gall bladder and kidney. There are even studies that prove the connection between serious illnesses and "dead water", comparing the electromagnetic frequency of diseased tissue with the frequency of such water. Therefore, so many diseases occur due to spoilt (so-called "dead") water and in order to eliminate such diseases it should primarily treat the water.

Dead water crystal looks scary

Living water crystal. The same water after treatment

The best way to turn dead water into the living one is to treat it with PolarAid. The treated water becomes soft and soluble. If drugs are administered with the water obtained in this way, their efficiency will be improved. Also the process of healing will be accelerated in case of E. coli, dysentery, jaundice and similar infectious diseases. Of course, the same relates to other diseases, because the living water that fully carries out its function of efficient cleaning of the body at the same time contributes to its recovery. It was noted that living water has positive impact on animals and plants thrive much better when watered by such water. PolarAid is a device that boosts the natural inflow of life energy, so called "bioenergy". One of many ways of the application of PolarAid is to put it under the jug with water for 30 minutes. In this way you will get the most powerful healing potion. Instead of dead, useless water you will drink the living and energized water. You will drink clean energy which is indispensable for your body. Tap water which often has odor and bad taste will become soft and will have sweet, pleasant taste. Some are comparing it with the taste of milk. Due to transport, long standing on the shelves, plastic packaging and so on, even the bottled spring water you buy in stores, has no longer the quality that it had at the moment of bottling. It is desirable to expose it to purification and energizing, in order to eliminate all negative information it picked up on its way from the spring to your home. If you drink distilled water, the same procedure should be carried out, because it does not belong to the so-called "living water". The living water cleanses the body of toxins, provides energy, strengthens the immune system and helps with the healing, even in cases of severe illness. The most famous living water is found in the Himalayan valley of Hunza, where people, despite their modest diet and the living conditions, live even up to 120 years. With respect to all current knowledge about water, to which some people give even attributes of life, it is very important what kind of water we drink, and it really can and should be our source of health. As with everything in life, we have the right to make a choice.

PolarAid - polarization disc has an excellent performance in: gynecological and urological problems, PMS, climacteric problems, infertility, impaired libido and potency, obesity, hemorrhoids, constipation and intestinal problems, painful joints and spine, all kinds of pain, pulmonary and cardiovascular problems, thyroiditis, sinusitis, headache, mood disorders, etc.

About the author: Dr. Dino Tomić, Specialist in Gynecology and Obstetrics for more than 20 years. He deals with exploring of other treatment options beyond the limited domain of the conventional medicine: quantum and bioresonance medicine, homeopathy, acupuncture and energy techniques.

E-mail: askdrtomic@polaraidhealth.com;

Order your PolarAid at: www.polaraidhealth.com